MACKENZIE RECOGNIZES STAFF AS SENIOR ASSOCIATES, STOCKHOLDERS

Portland, Oregon – Mackenzie is recognizing Mike Rueter and Scott Moore as Senior Associates and company stockholders after more than a decade of significant contribution to the growth of the firm. Mackenzie Managing Principal, Rich Mitchell, commends their ambition and consistent pursuit of excellence. “These employees are natural leaders and team players, consistently displaying a tenacious work ethic and professionalism that continuously develops long-term relationships with our clients,” Mitchell said. “We take pride in our employees; they’re our greatest asset, and we are more than pleased to recognize Scott Moore and Mike Rueter for their dedication to Mackenzie.”

Mike Rueter is being recognized as a Senior Associate at Mackenzie after joining the firm in 2005. He is a registered architect in Oregon and carries LEED Accredited Professional credentials. Rueter acts as the project manager for Mackenzie’s 24-Hour Fitness corporate account, assisting in the due diligence, site selection, design development, and all documentation phases. Along with being a pivotal asset in the design of the 24-Hour Fitness facilities in Canoga Park, Calif., Redland Hills, Calif., and Gladstone, Ore., Rueter is assisting in the design of The Iron Fireman, a 98,000 SF mixed-use project scheduled for completion in early 2017. Rueter is honored to receive the recognition of Senior Associate and highly regards his colleagues at Mackenzie, saying “I have received an amazing amount of support during my last 11 years and I wouldn’t be where I am today without the talented, diverse team members I have had the pleasure to work with.” Rueter received his Bachelor of Architecture degree, with an emphasis in urban design, from North Dakota State University.

With over 15 years in the architecture department at Mackenzie, Scott Moore, a registered architect in Oregon, is being recognized as a Senior Associate and company stockholder. Moore is currently the Assistant Department Head of Architecture at Mackenzie’s Portland and Vancouver offices, and has acted as the project architect on several public projects, including the Rockwood Public Safety Building, Dundee Fire Station, Vancouver Fire Stations 1 and 2, Sandy Fire District Main Station Remodel, and Stevens County Fire Stations 2 and 8. Moore has a Bachelor of Architecture degree from the University of Oregon and is certified through the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB).
